CMC's Labor/Employee Relations and Collective Bargaining Masterclass Series is not just a review of the law bogged down in legalese; our series is a practical and interactive experience designed to equip you with useful information and tools for successfully addressing today's employee and labor relations issues.

Part One of our series is Uncovering Legal Landmines: What Employers Need to Know About Labor Law and Labor Relations, which is designed to provide unionized and non-unionized employers with a foundational overview of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) and its role in enforcing the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA).

Participants will learn about:

- NLRB updates, trends, and forecasts.
- Employers' rights and responsibilities under the NLRA, protected concerted activity, and union activity.
- Engaging discussion and case studies to help you successfully manage under the NLRA and best practices for ensuring informed decision-making.
