[Webinar] Process Safety Update: The Latest with OSHA's PSM Standard and EPA's RMP Rule

On Tuesday, November 19, 2019 at 1:00 PM Eastern, join Eric J. Conn, Amanda Walker, and Micah Smith of Conn Maciel Carey's national OSHA Practice for a complimentary webinar regarding "Process Safety Update: The Latest with OSHA's PSM Standard and EPA's RMP Rule."

Following the tragic West Fertilizer explosion in 2013, then-President Obama issued an Executive Order directing OSHA, EPA and other agencies to "modernize" the way the government regulates chemical process safety. OSHA and EPA took (or at least initiated) sweeping actions in response to the Executive Order, from enforcement initiatives (like a new wave of Refinery and Chemical Facility PSM National Emphasis Program inspections) to rulemaking and interpretation letters to overhaul OSHA's PSM and EPA's RMP regulatory landscape.

When President Trump took office with a de-regulatory agenda, the regulated community was left wondering what this meant for these changes to process safety regulations. But rather than a continued wave of action, the momentum splintered, with some initiatives proceeding, others coming to a halt, and others still being pared back. We saw immediate delays and the beginning of rollbacks of new process safety regulations, yet enforcement initiatives appeared to move forward unhindered. And now, with two years of the Trump Administration in the books, it is still unclear where the regulatory landscape will settle.

This webinar will review the status and likely future of OSHA's PSM Standard and EPA's RMP Rule, as well as other major process safety developments from the federal government, state governments, and industry groups.

Specifically, participants in this webinar will learn about:

- The status of OSHA's PSM Rulemaking and EPA's RMP Rollback Rule
- Data and trends from two years of OSHA's Chem/Ref PSM National Emphasis Program
- Significant PSM cases decided by OSHRC
- New PSM-related Letters of Interpretation from OSHA
- Key takeaways from our recent 2nd Annual Process Safety Summit in Washington, DC
